

Digital issuance and investing will happen as soon as legal and regulatory confusion clears, say respondents to a Future of Finance poll

When will digital issuance and investing happen?

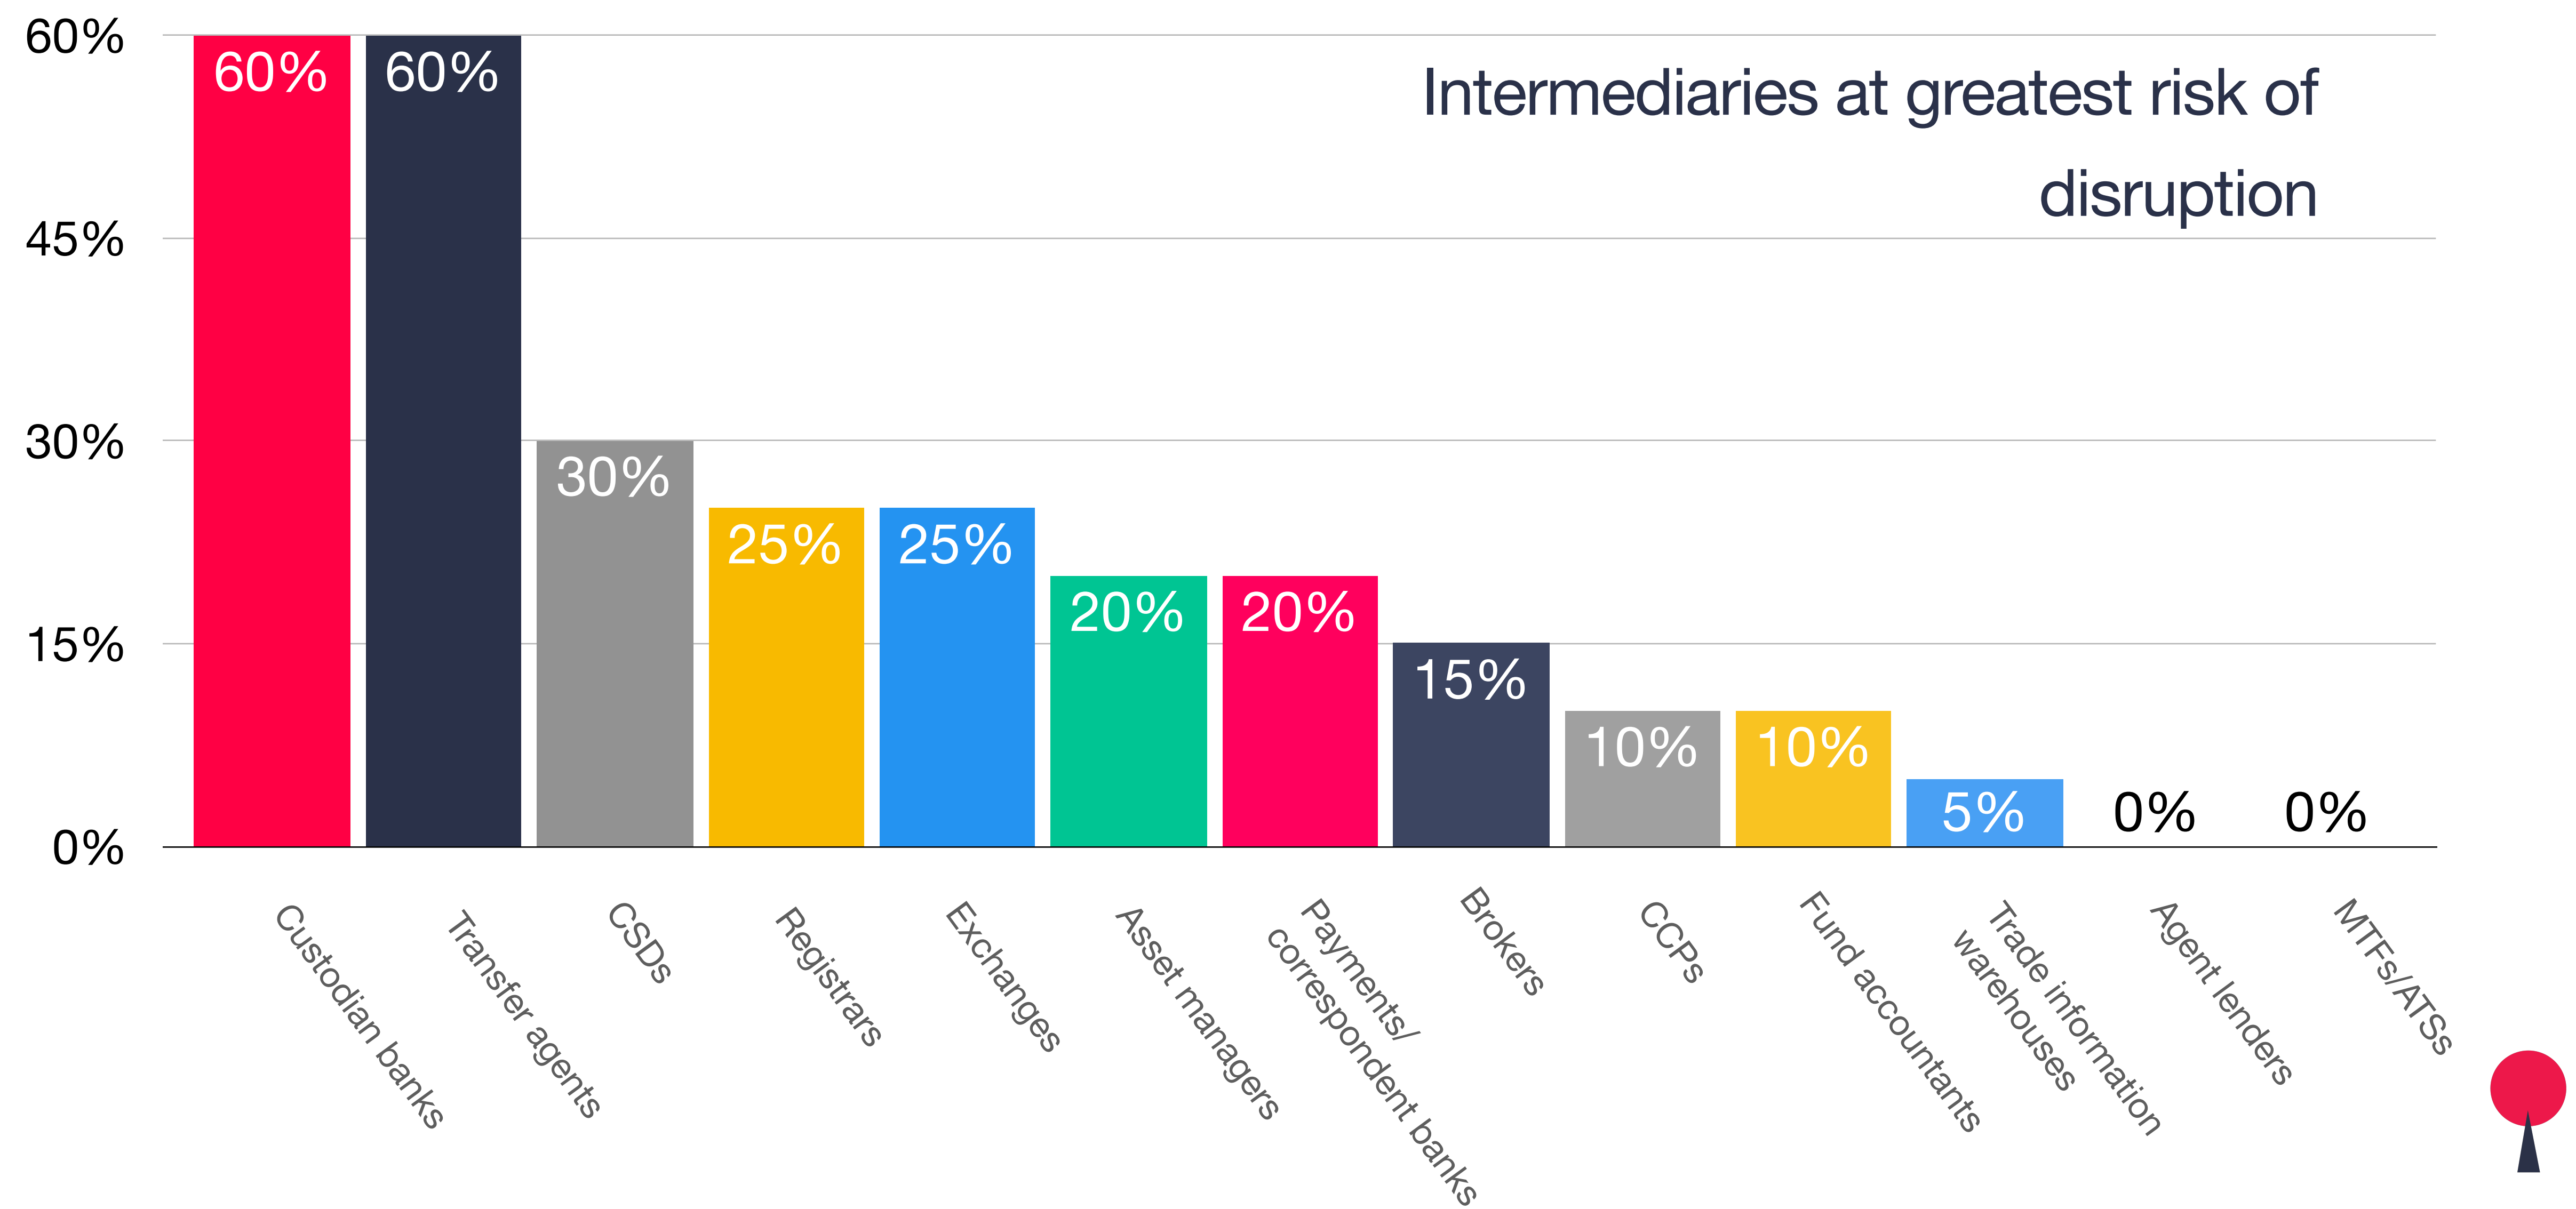

When digital issuance will happen

- Imminent
- In the far future
- In the near future

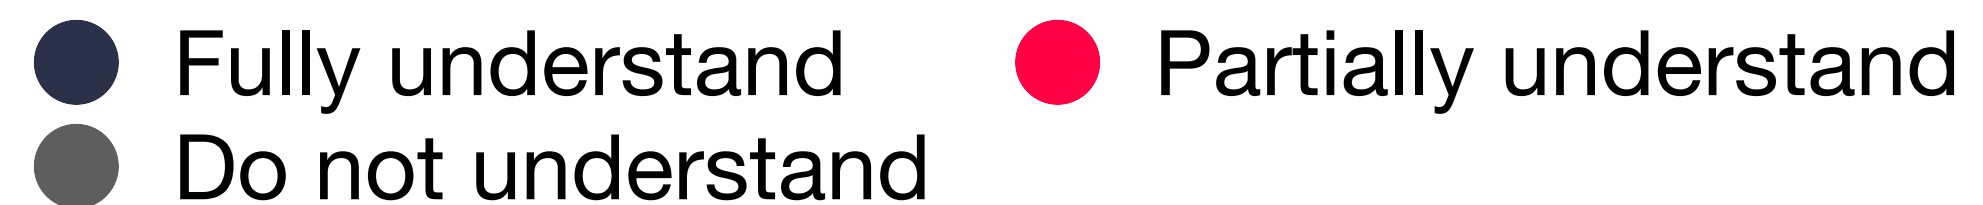

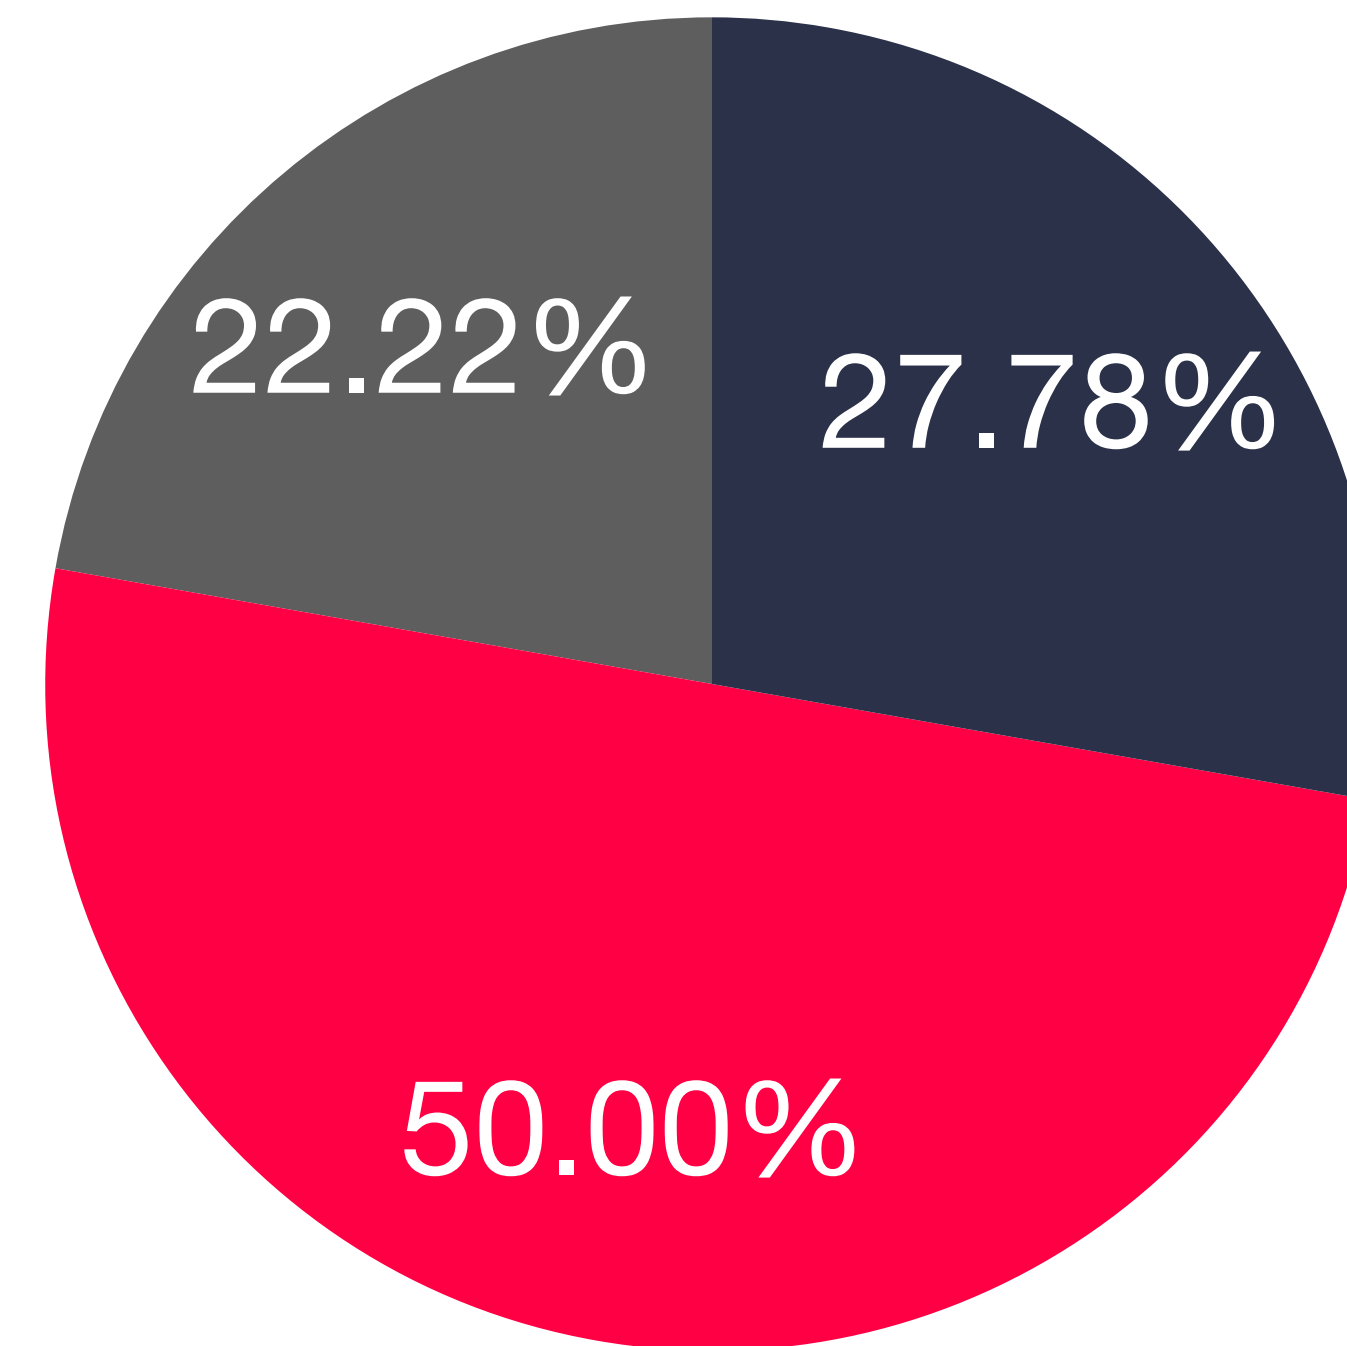

Which intermediaries will be most disrupted by digital issuance and investing?

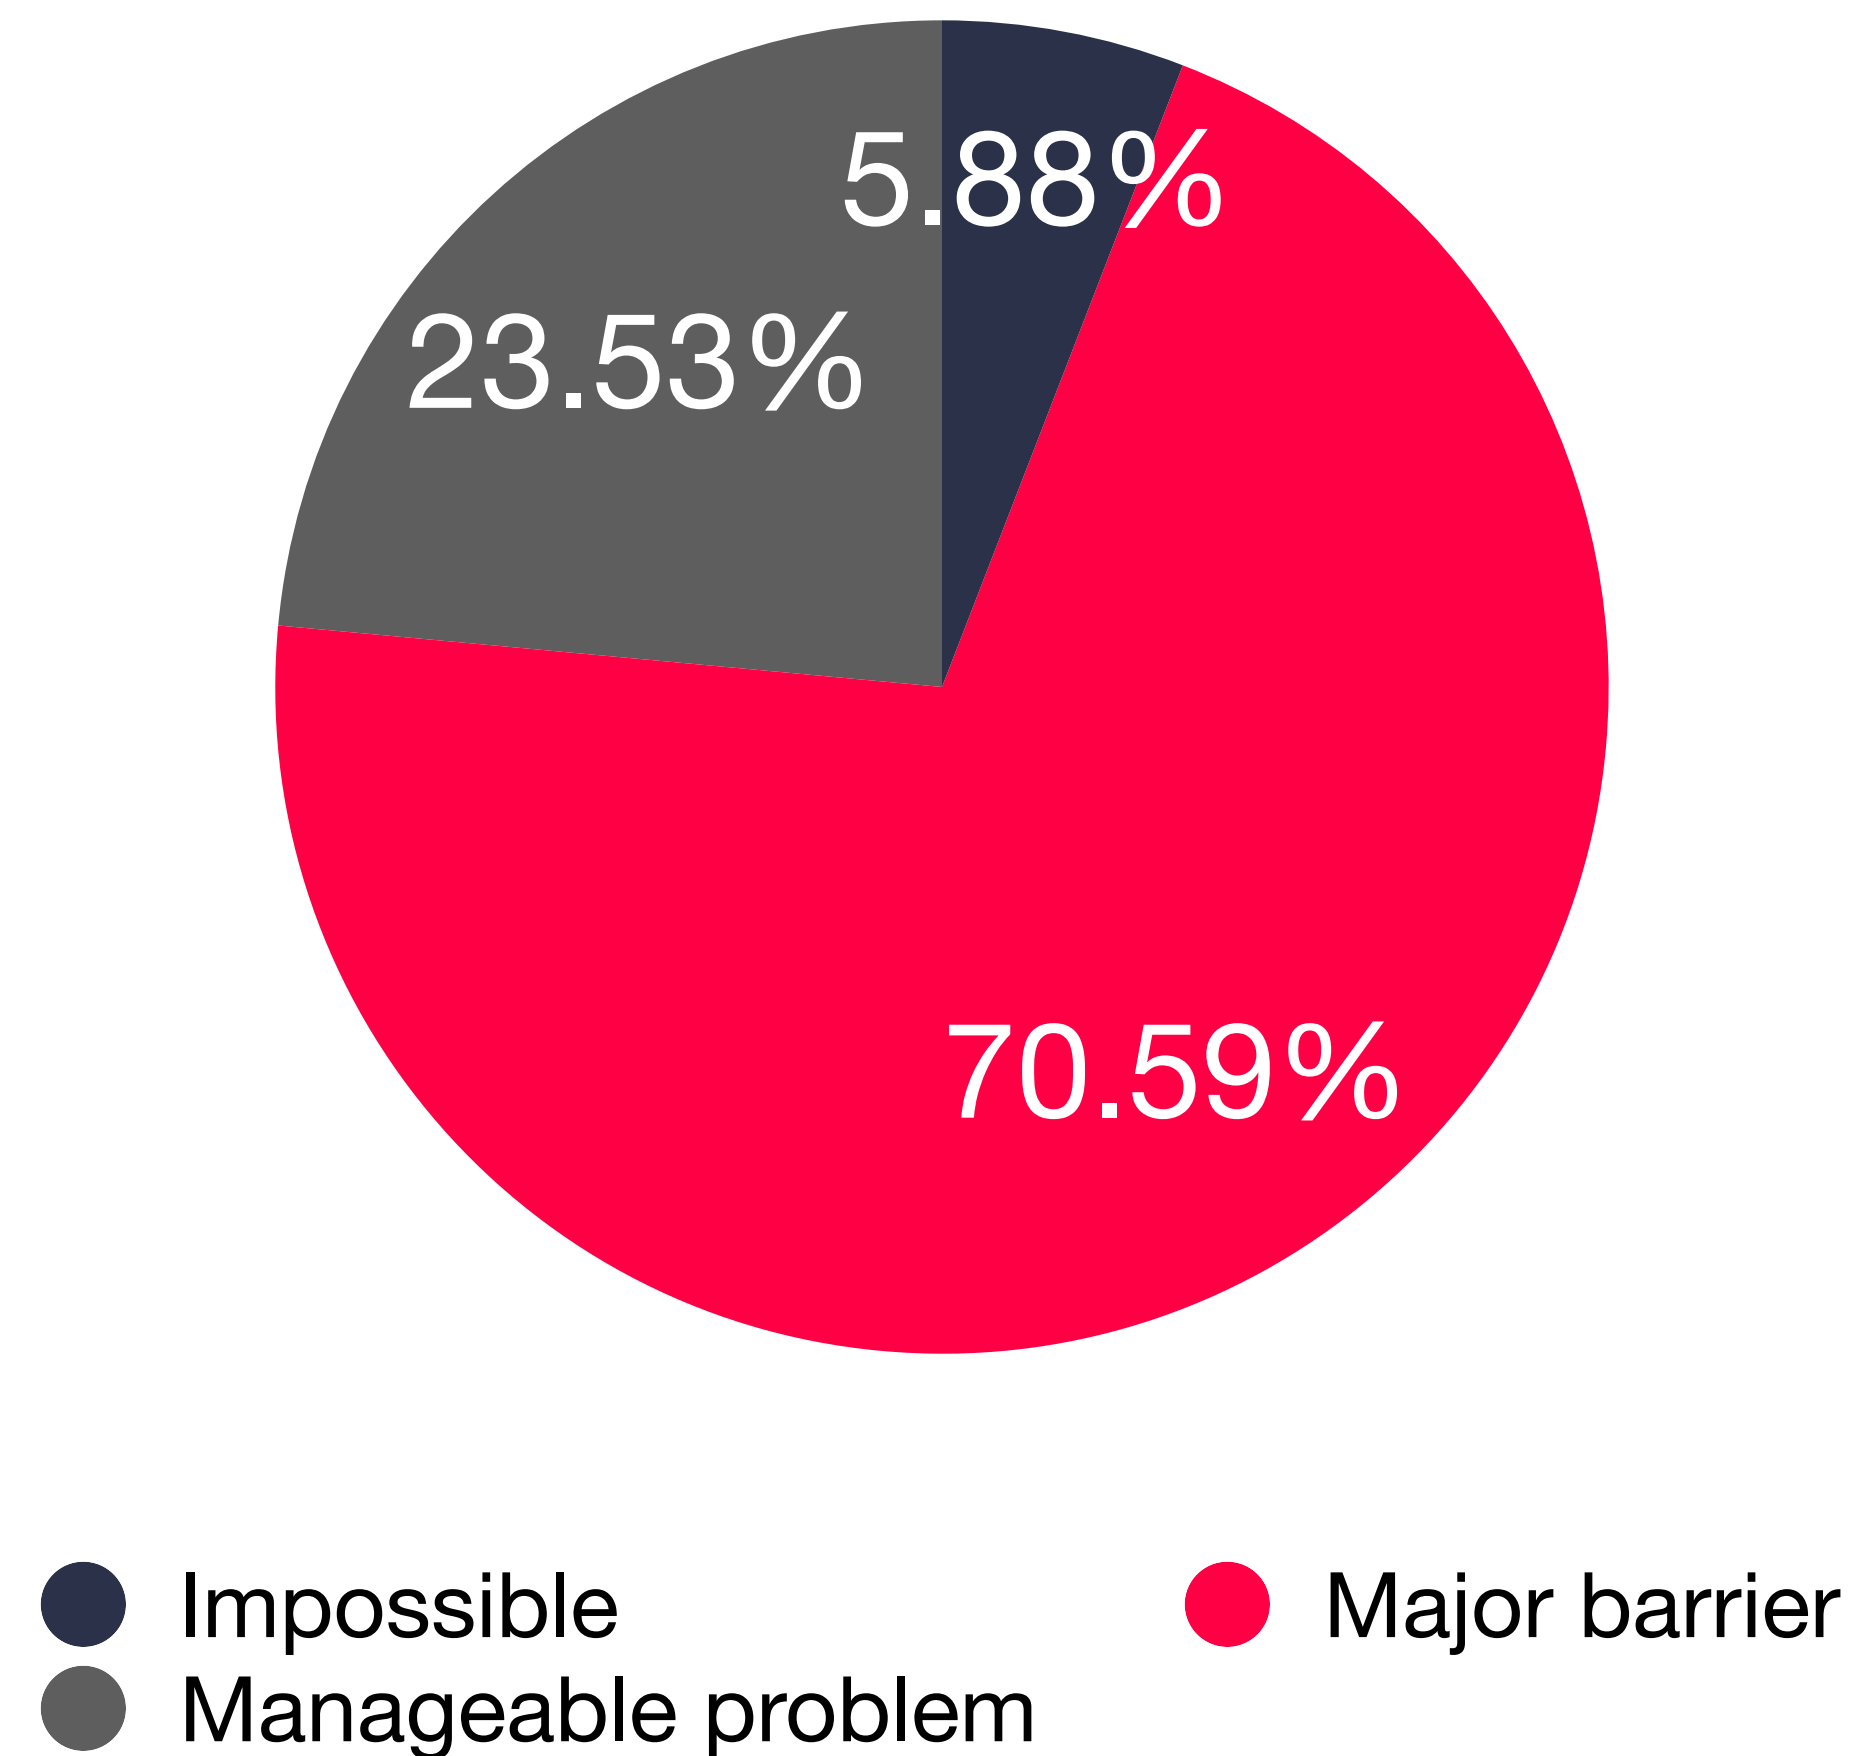

Why will asset managers have no assets to manage when issuance and investing is digitised?

Why asset managers will have no assets to manage in a tokenised marketplace

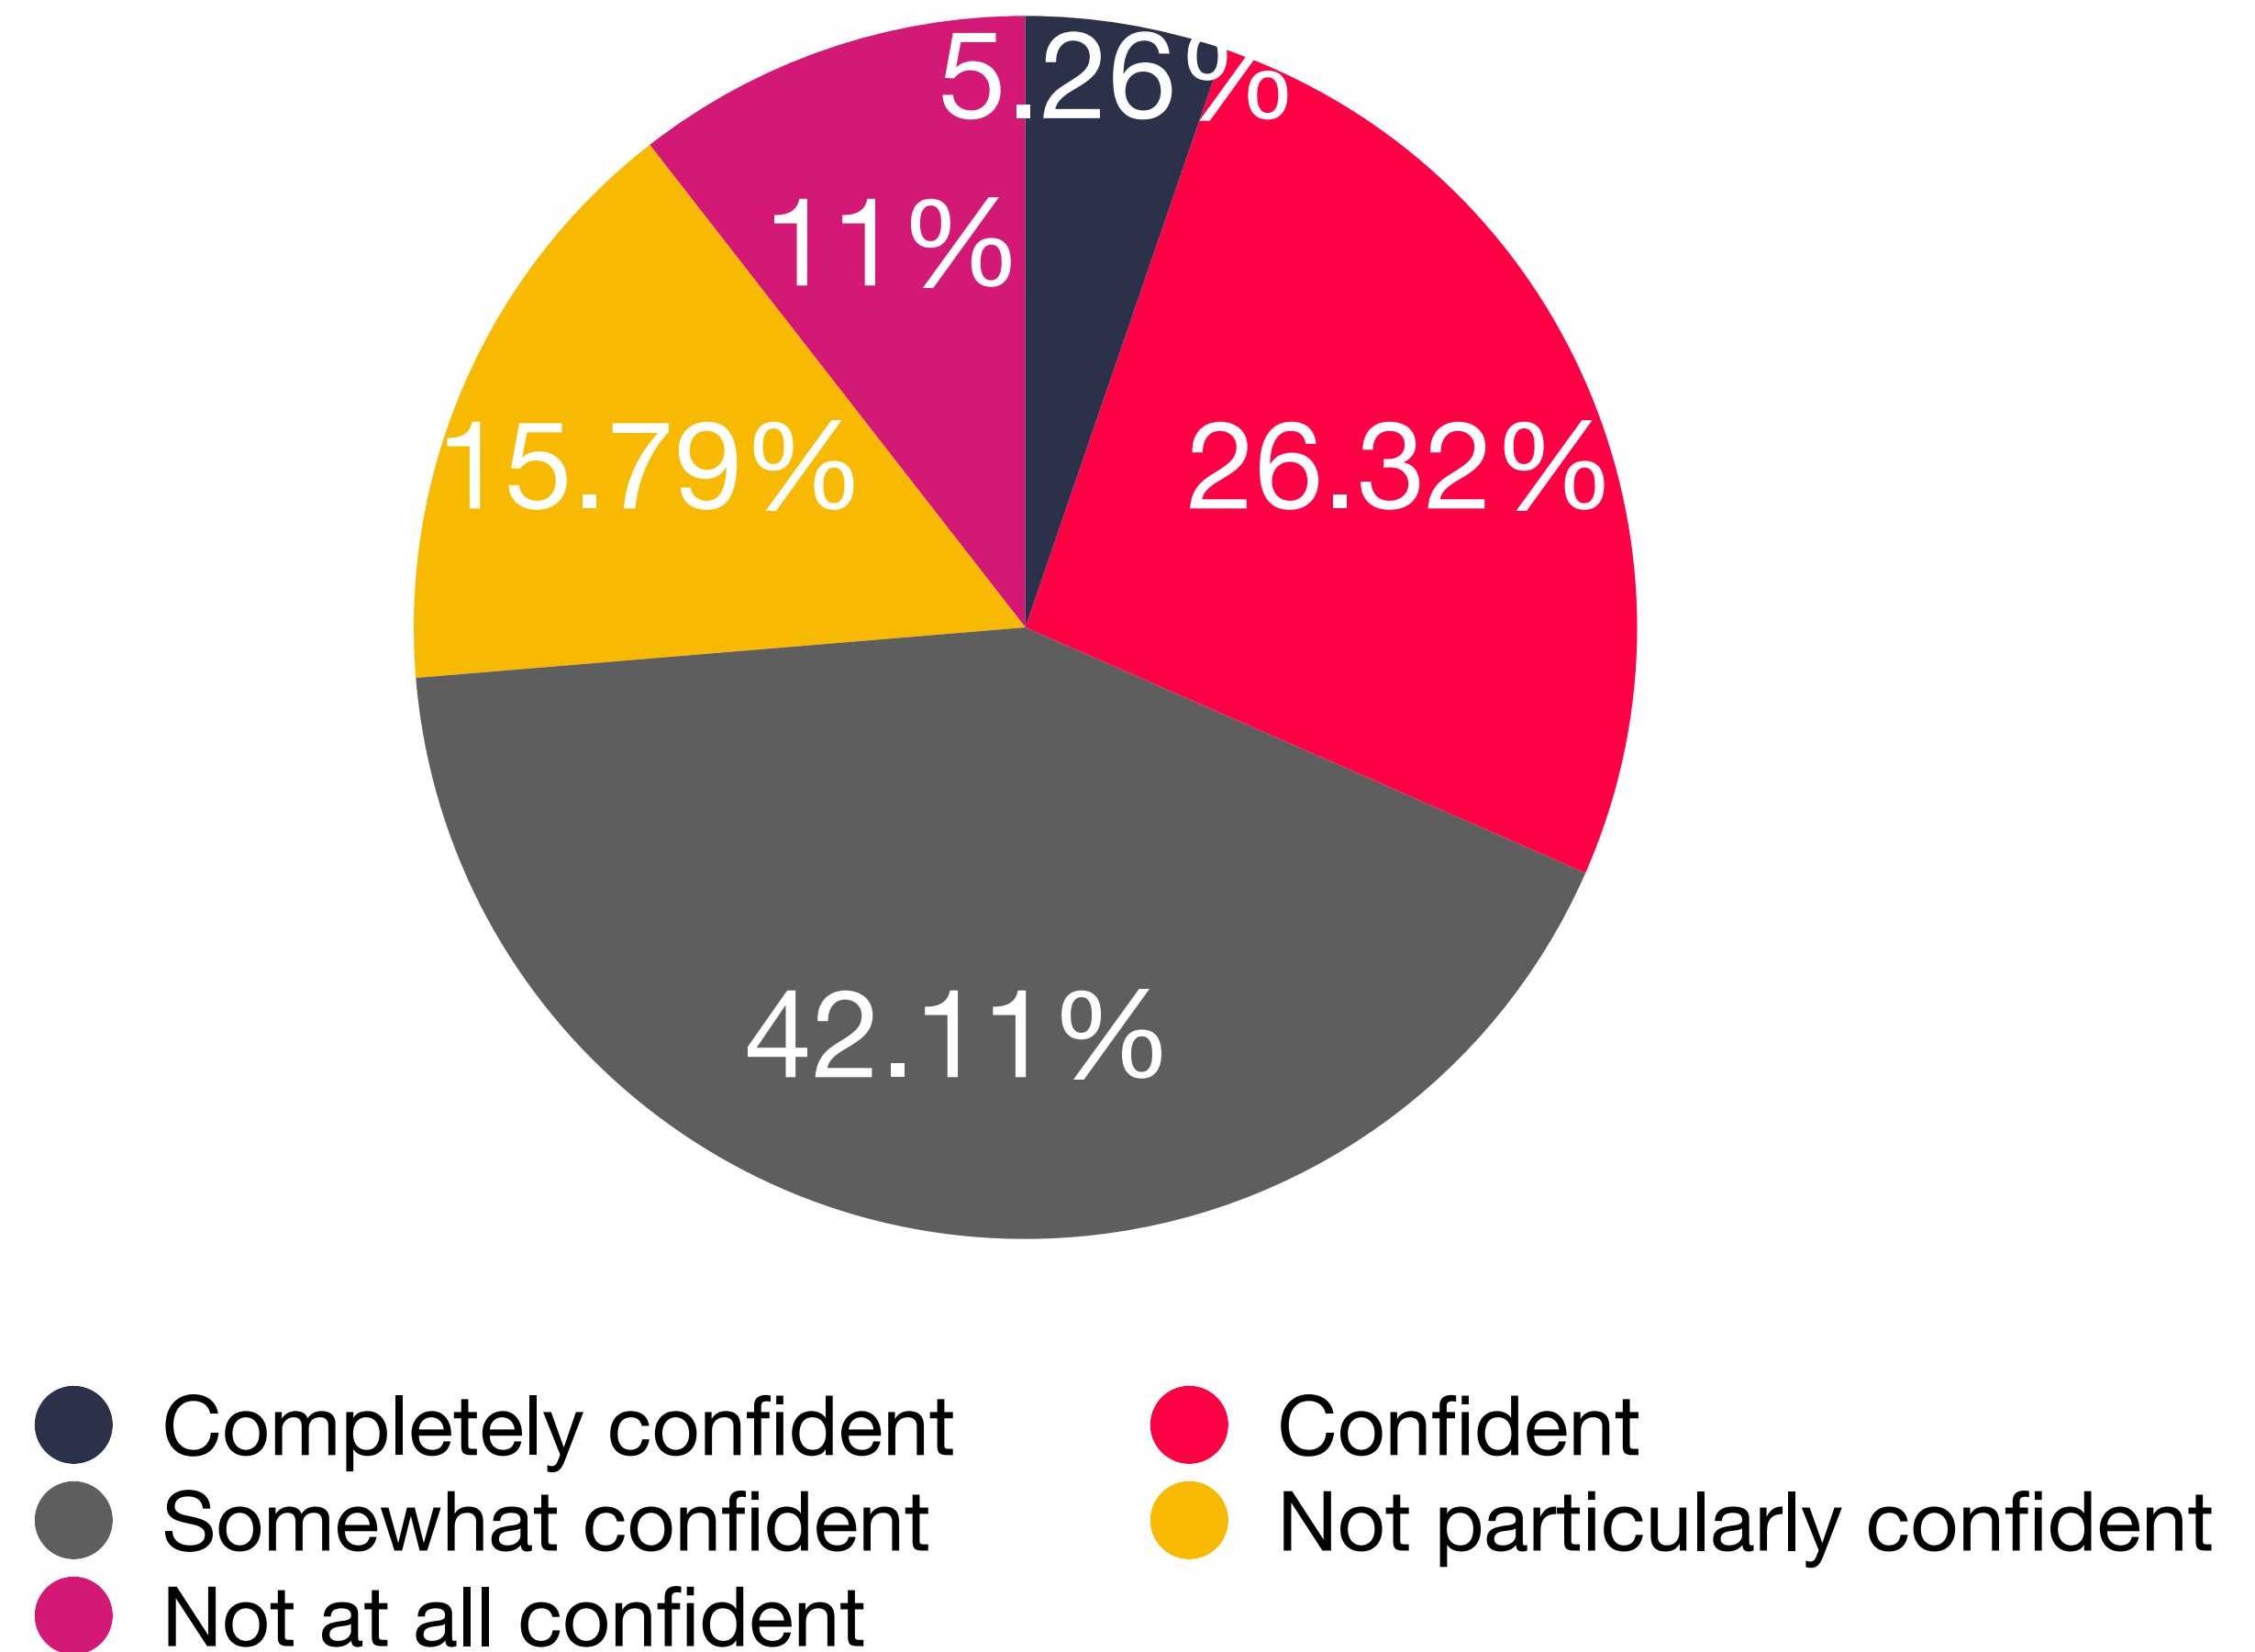

How problematic is the regulatory and legal uncertainty surrounding digital assets?

The impact of regulatory and legal uncertainty on the ability to participate in tokenised markets

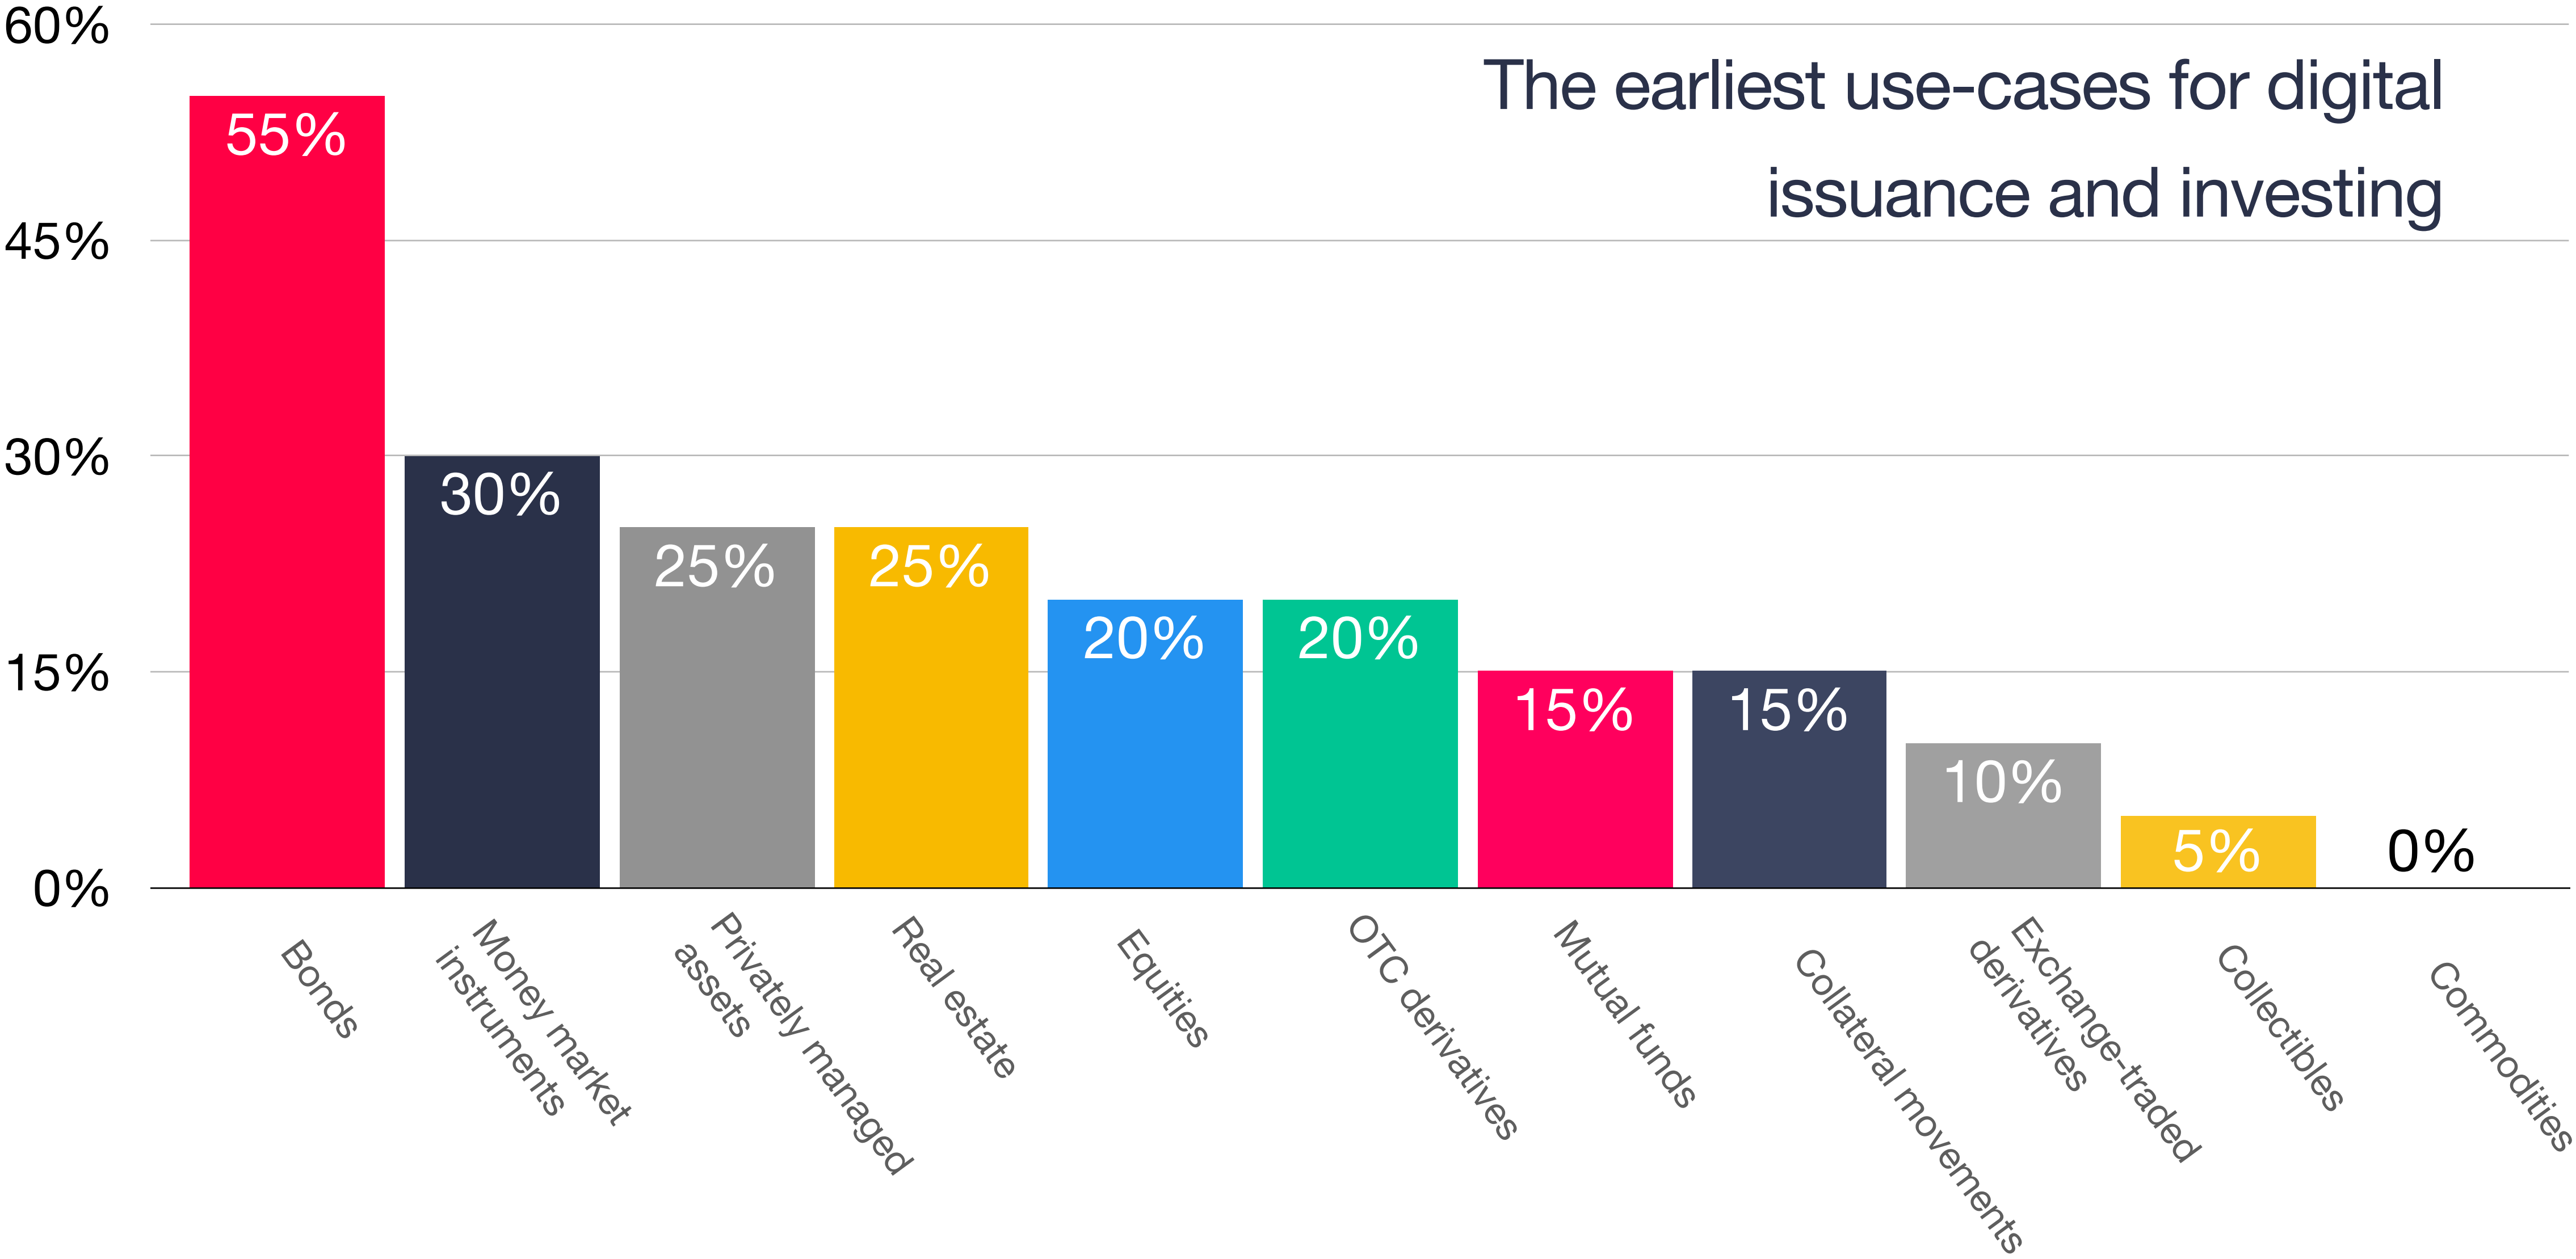

How comfortable are you with relying on smart contracts to automate transactions and service assets?

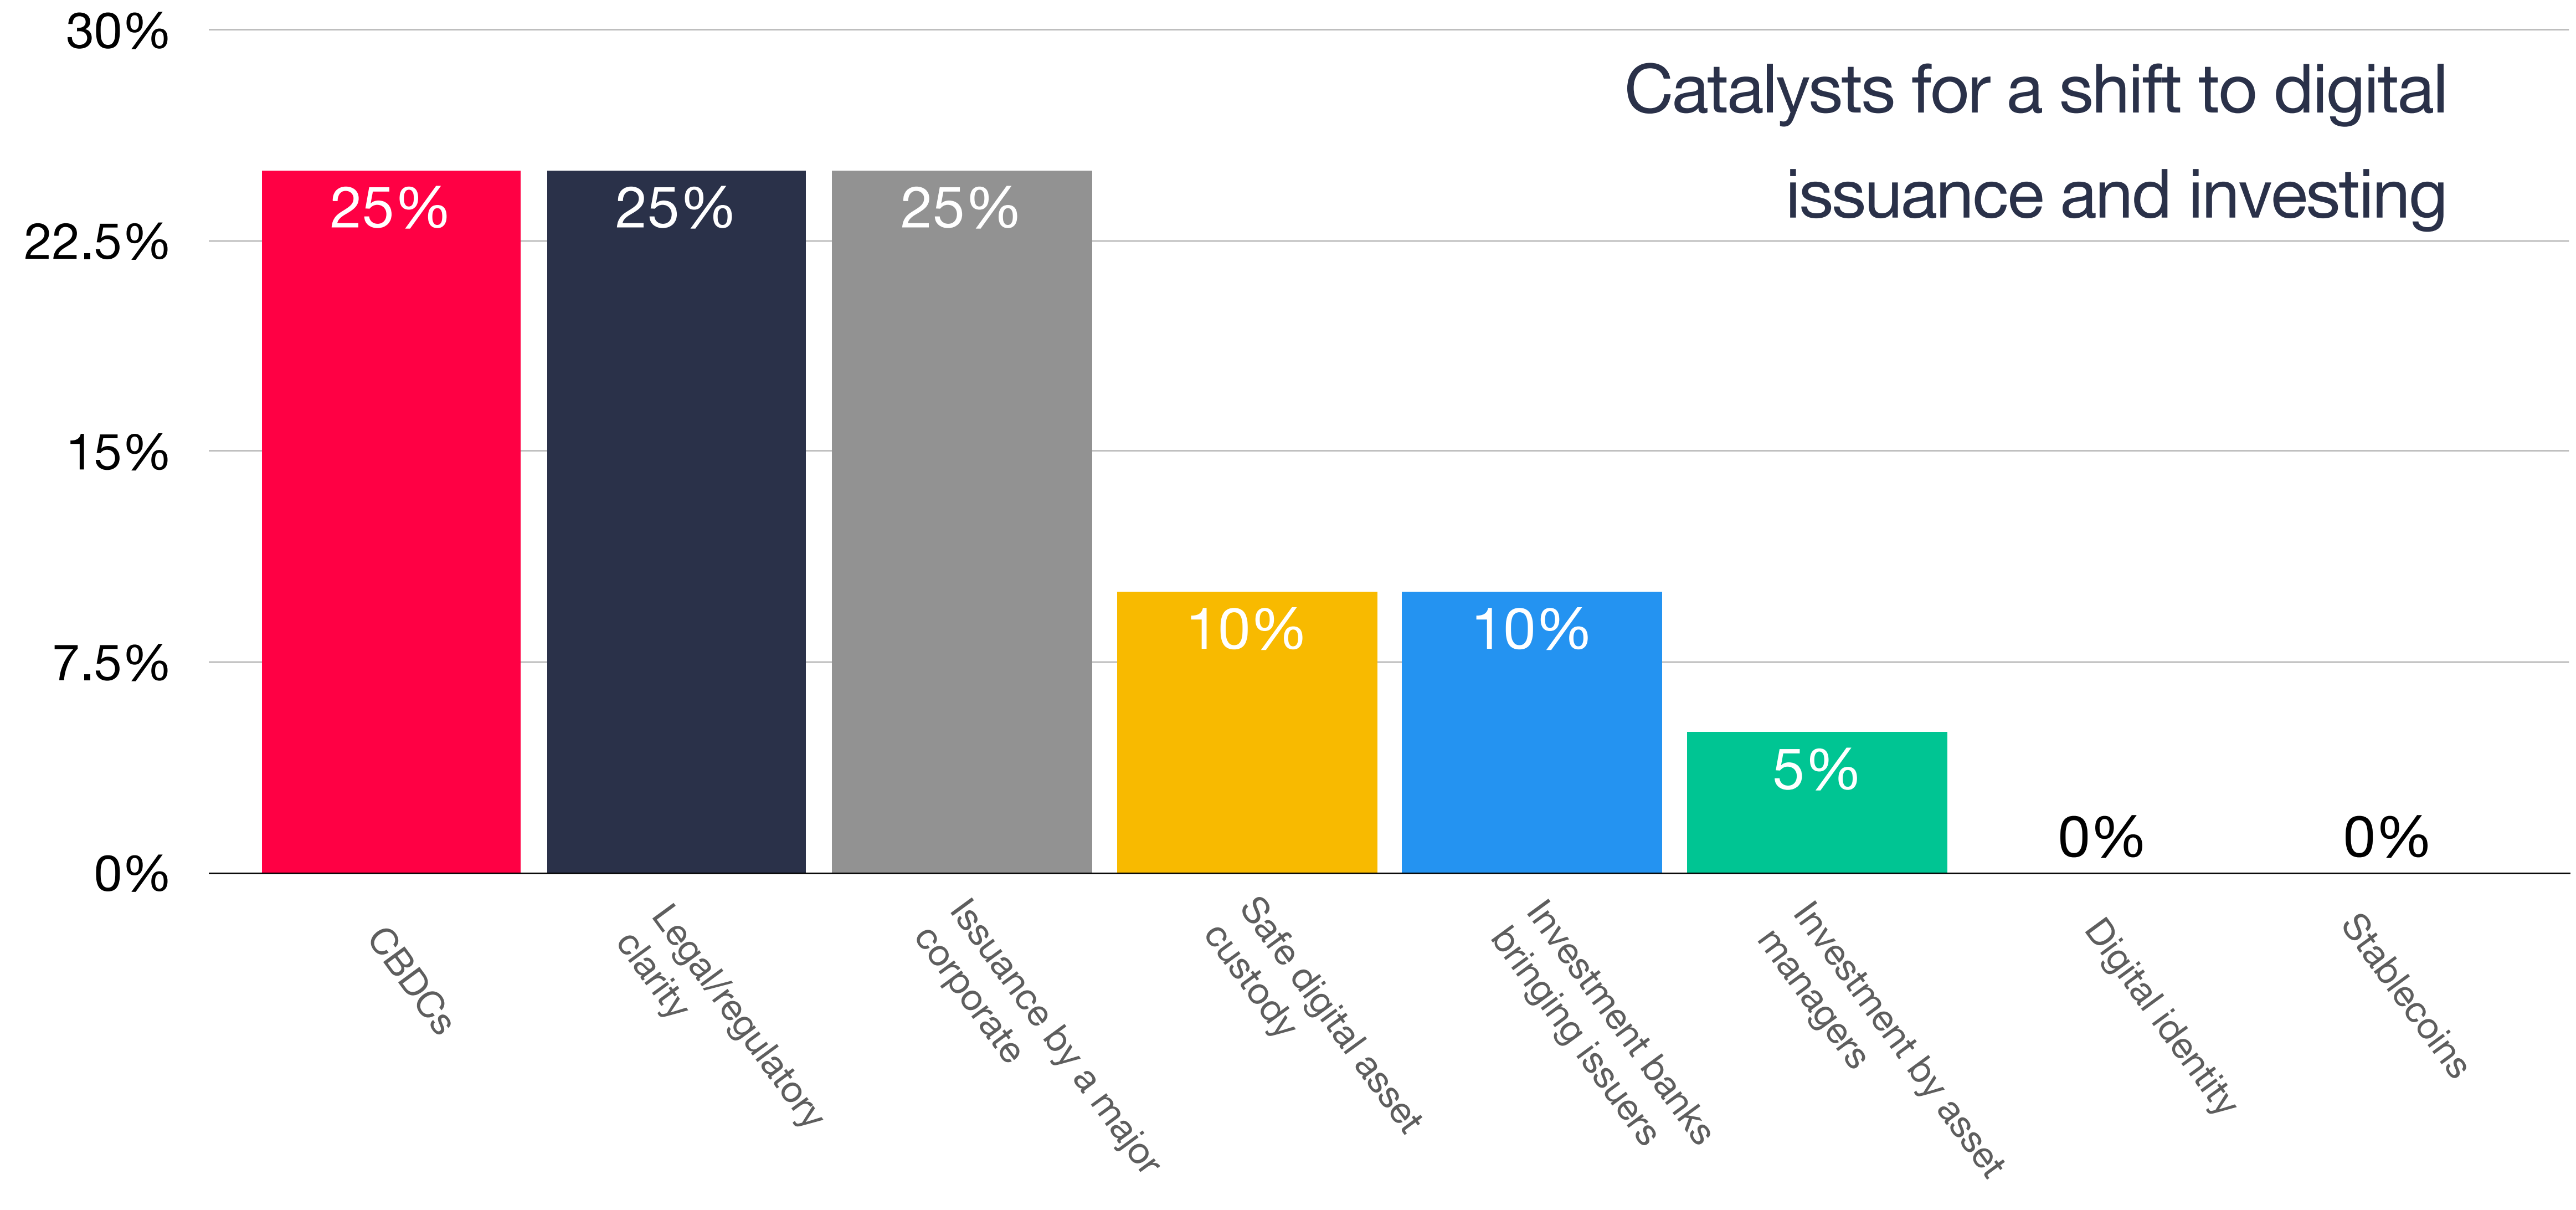

Level of confidence in smart contracts to automate transaction processing and asset servicing

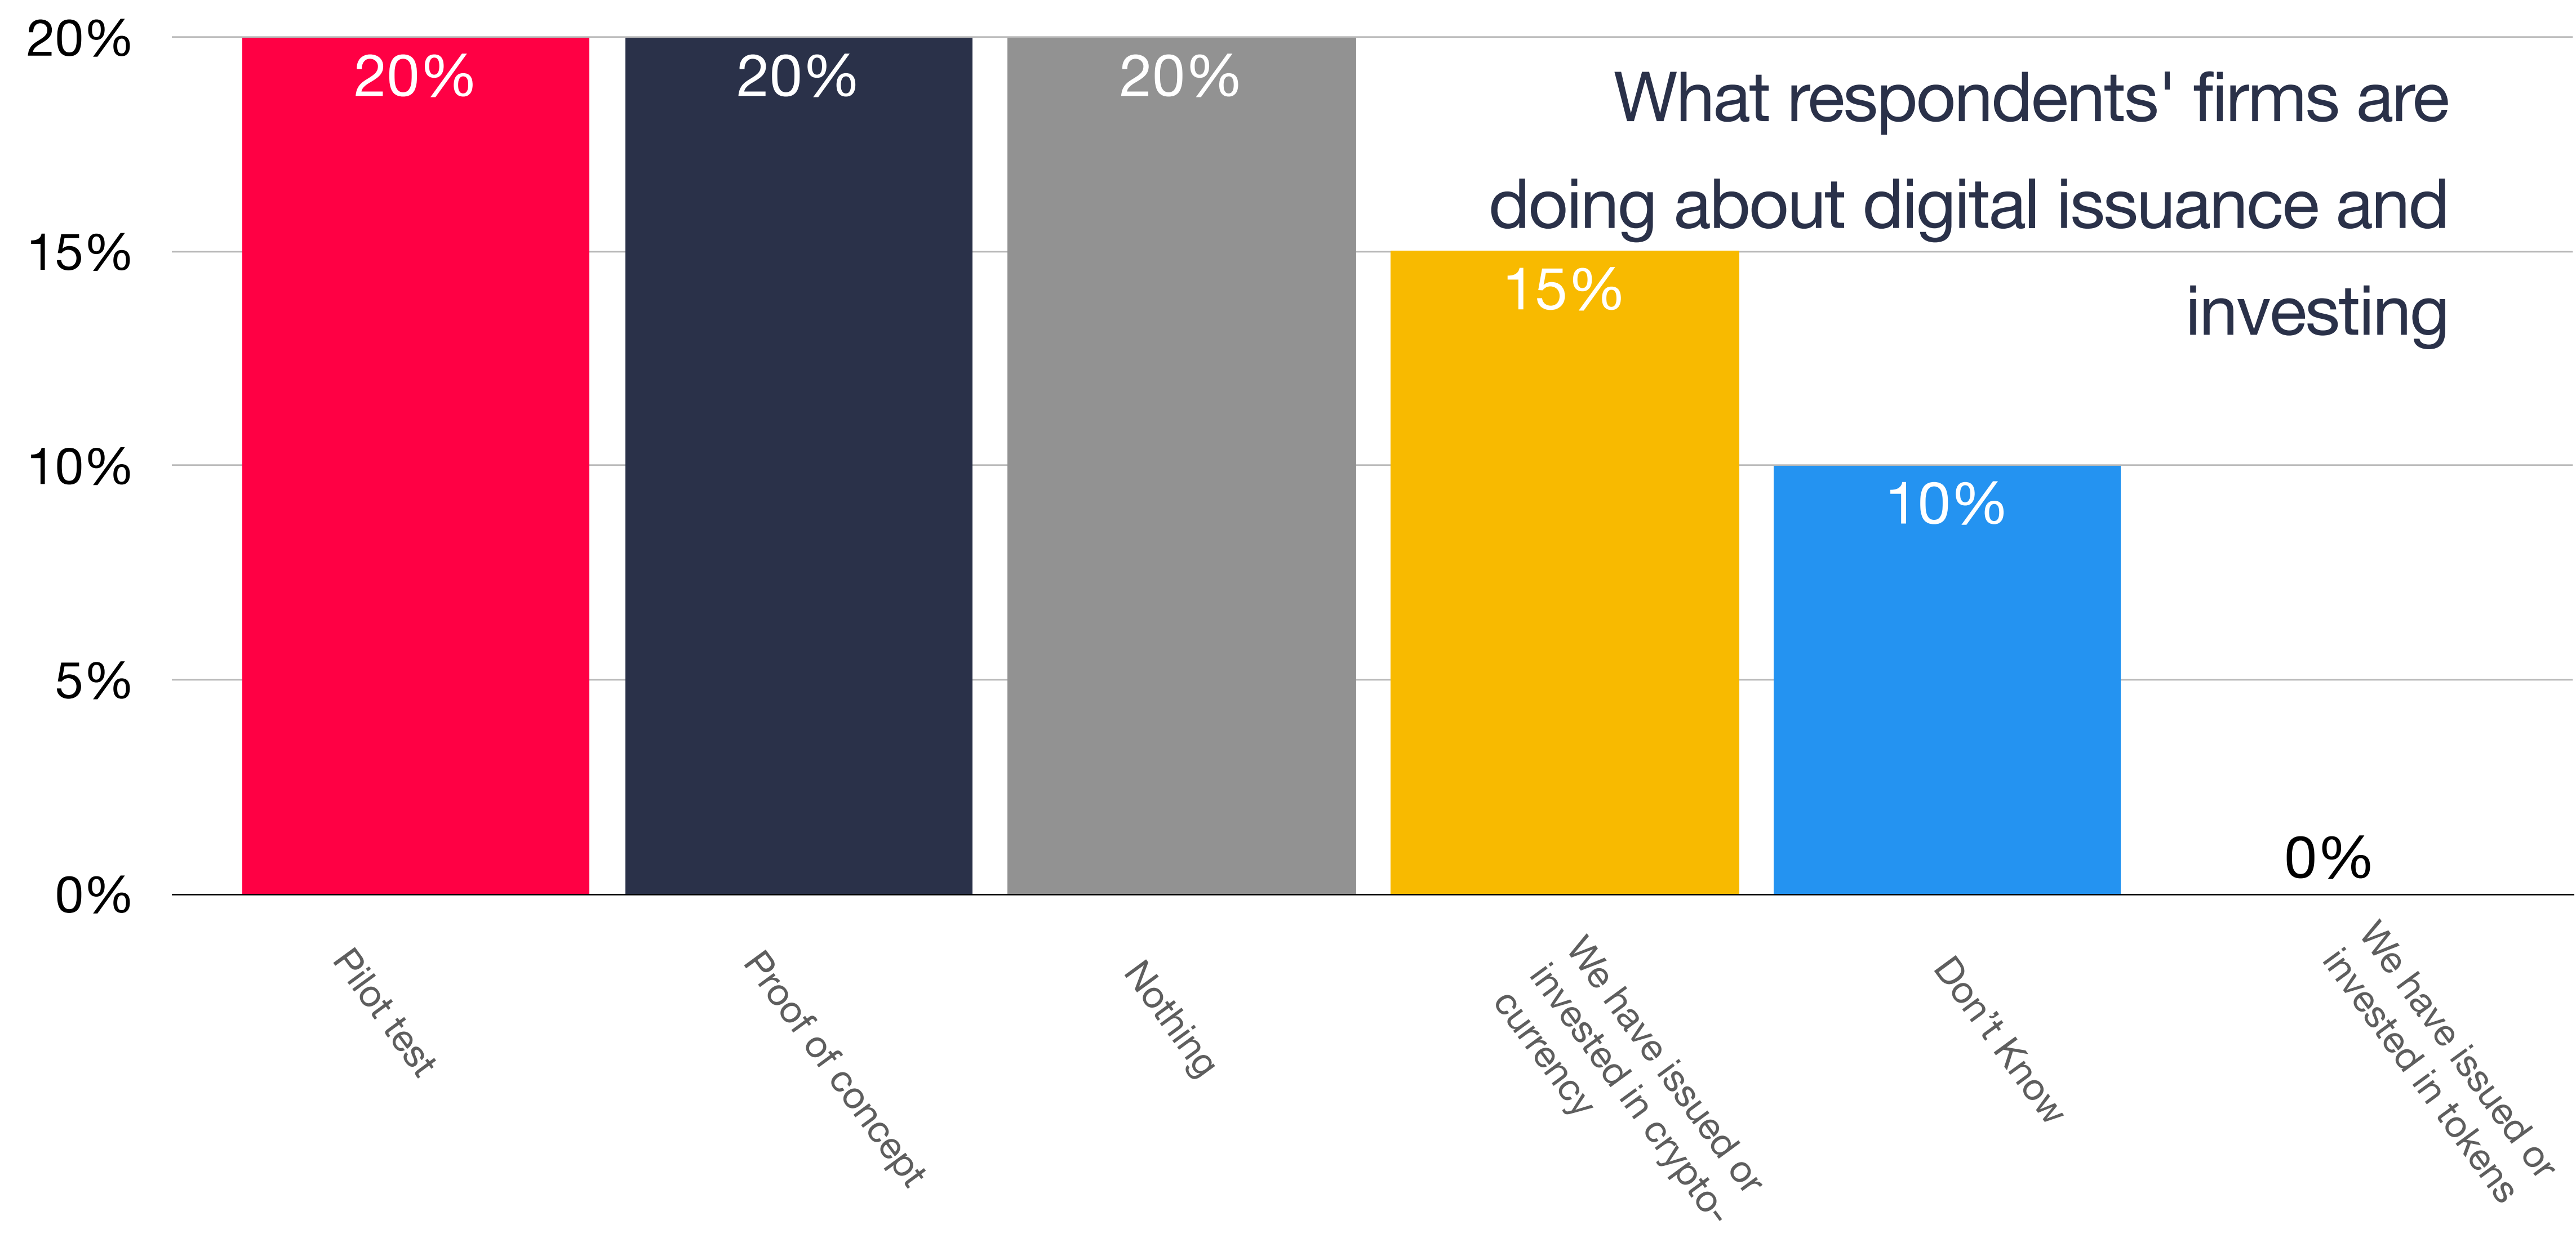

Which asset classes do you consider to be the earliest use cases for digital issuance and investing?

What do you think will catalyse a shift to digital issuance and investing?

What is your firm is doing about digital issuance and investing?

What are the most urgent priorities for your firm?

